DETAILS ON COPYRIGHT FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The journal's policy is to acquire copyright to all contributions. There are two reasons for this:

- a. ownership of copyright by one central organization tends to ensure maximum protection against infringement;
- b. it also ensures that requests by third parties to reprint a contribution, or part of it, are handled efficiently and in accordance with a general policy which is sensitive both to any relevant changes in international copyright legislation and to the general desirability of encouraging the dissemination of knowledge.

The Author warrants that this article is original, and has neither been submitted for publication, nor has been published in any form, except in abstract form, elsewhere. Furthermore, where applicable, the Author warrants that written permission has been obtained from all third-party copyright holders to re-publish part or all of their articles, illustrations, etc., as part of this article.

The Author retains the right to use all or part of this article/review in future works under his or her own name, on the condition that proper credit is given to its prior publication and that John Benjamins Publishing Company is notified of this repeated use. In all other cases written permission must be obtained from the Publisher.

Hereby the Author agrees to transfer the copyright of the above article to John Benjamins Publishing Company, effective upon acceptance of the article for publication.
